Paragraph

There are four seasons in the year: winter, spring, summer, and fall. A synonym for fall is autumn. These seasons change every three (3) months. This is because our planet, Earth, tilts on its axis from side to side. This causes the sun's rays to alternate striking the North Pole are for a few months and then strike the South Pole area for a few months. This makes the sun appear to move high and low in its path across the sky.
