

Eddie, Incorporated
OCR 4th grade Unit 2 Lesson 1
Readers Theatre

Warren: I'm starting a new business. Do you want to invest in it?

Carl: That depends on the type of business and your business plan.

Warren: It's a brilliant idea! I'm starting a car and dog washing business.

Carl: What do you project the income will be?

Warren: Enough so that after expenses, I will make a hefty profit.

Carl: Do you have any debts?

Warren: None at all. I've tallied all my money.

Carl: How much in interest will I earn each month on my investment?

Warren: I can give you 4% for now, and more if I incorporate.

Carl: Are you going to be the chief executive?

Warren: Yes sir!

Carl: Tell me, how do you plan to wash both cars and dogs?

Warren: The customers will drive through the carwash with their dogs attached to the hoods.

Carl: That's a ridiculous idea! The dogs won't like it a bit.

Warren: It will be something they'll have to get used to if I'm going to be successful.

Carl: Why don't you make it into a baby wash too while you're at it?

Warren: That's a great idea! I could attach the babies to the trunks of the cars.

Carl: You're a complete and utter moron!
